Personal Liberty, National Bankruptcy Threatened, Delegates Hear

CONVENTION HALL, Philadelphia, June 25 — Flatly accusing President Roosevelt of leading the nation toward dictatorship, Rep. Joseph W. Martin of Massachusetts today called on a thousand wildly cheering delegates to the G.O.P. national convention for a "crusade" to check the alleged drift and to preserve fundamental Americanism.

Delivering his attack as he assumed permanent chairmanship of the convention, the New Englander castigated the New Deal for harboring "fifth columnists," condemned what he termed a seven-year "nightmare of experimentation and spending," and predicted repudiation of the Roosevelt administration at the polls next November.

In addition, he took a pointed slap at alleged interventionist policies of Mr. Roosevelt and Secretary of State Cordell Hull, asserting that "there is much reason to believe we may yet wake up to find we have been pushed into war."

"For seven anxious years we have seen this march toward one-man government," he cried. "There is a steady drift toward governmental absolutism both at home and abroad. This drift must be checked. It must be checked this year."

"Our nation is in danger. Clear and loud above the roar of war abroad and the chaos and confusion at home comes the call to patriotic Americans. It is an appeal and a challenge to all who love America; to all, regardless of party affiliations, who are true to (Continued on Page Three)

Taft Says Strength 'Holding Solidly'

PHILADELPHIA, June 25 — Taft managers declared today that the Ohio senator's primary delegate strength for the Republican presidential nomination is holding solidly and that the reported sensational gains of Wendell Willkie, if authentic, have been made at the expense of Thomas E. Dewey. U. S. Senator Robert A. Taft and his managers, like the other candidates, refrained from discussing opponents publicly, limiting discussion to their own campaign, but the feeling was evident at Taft headquarters that Willkie's delegate strength has been overestimated.

One Taft aide went so far as to predict, privately, that the utilities executive's block of delegates would be confined largely to New Jersey, New York and New England with scattered votes elsewhere, although 16 western Pennsylvania votes were said to be ready to swing to Willkie if there is a break from Gov. Arthur James.

Meanwhile, the Ohio delegation of 52, pledged 100 percent to Taft, went to bat for him by making individual canvasses of other delegations before convention session in an effort to win over new support and preserve present strength.

Old Line Republicans Hit Willkie's "Propaganda"

PHILADELPHIA, June 25—The cry of "propaganda" was raised today against the phenomenal, eleventh-hour drive to put over Wendell L. Willkie as the Republican nominee for President.

Old-line party leaders supporting other candidates bitterly unboomed themselves in private conversations. They branded the Willkie boom "the most stupendous and scientific job of propaganda ever perpetrated on a political party in America."

FRENCH CONSULS RETAIN PLACES IN POSSESSIONS

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana, June 25—The French consul at Georgetown today remained in office, operating under the new French national committee in exile in London.

Likewise, French consuls in the British West Indies are remaining at their posts, taking orders from the French national committee in exile now that the government of Premier Marshal Henri Petain at Bordeaux has capitulated to the Italo-German Allies.

PACIFIC FLEET IN SECRET MOVE FROM HONOLULU

HONOLULU, June 25 — In a move shrouded with secrecy, the United States fleet was reported speeding eastward from Hawaii today.

Navy officials refused to either confirm or deny the rumor, one high official stating: "We are not confirming the report; neither are we denying that it might be true."

The fighting craft ended their annual maneuvers in Hawaiian waters last May, and yesterday civilian observers said they saw a long string of warships leave the Lahaina Roads, off Lahaina, Island of Maui, and round Diau (Continued on Page Three)

COUNTY RECEIVES MORE OHIO MONEY FOR RELIEF

State Welfare Director Charles L. Sherwood announced Tuesday that Pickaway County relief offices would receive an additional $3,165 distribution of relief funds, as the result of a measure passed by the special session of the legislature last week. At the session, the legislature increased the state's share of the relief load from 40 to 50 percent. The additional payment is 10 percent due the county under the new law.

DECLARING that the United States must build immediately defense forces strong enough to beat off any attack on the Western Hemisphere, youthful Governor Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota, above, asserted in his keynote address at the first night session of the Republican National Convention in Philadelphia that "our foreign policy has been one of a big noise and a little stick" while the nation needs again "a calm, resolute voice and a big stick." Governor Stassen is shown facing the battery of radio microphones on the speaker's rostrum as he delivered the address.

TWO SUSPECTS ARRESTED AFTER WOMAN IS SHOT

CHILLICOTHE, June 25—With Mrs. Katherine Givens, 65, proprietor of a grocery store at Lyndon, near here, wounded in the right arm and right lung by one of two men who attempted to rob her, Marysville police announced today that they had arrested two Negroes as suspects in the robbery. They were Emerson E. Browder, 22, and Clarence E. Jones, 23.

Mrs. Givens' condition was "fair", Chillicothe Hospital attaches said.

The two suspects were nabbed after an attempt to rob a filling station in Union County. The shooting is reported to have occurred shortly after the two men had entered the store and ordered some meat from Mrs. Givens. While she was cutting the meat, she told sheriff's officials that the bandits started toward the cash register. Mrs. Givens started chasing them with her butcher knife. One of them pulled a gun and shot her, the bullet passing through her right arm, lung and lodging in her back, X-rays revealed.

Despite this, she followed them to the street where they escaped in a car.

ROOSEVELT SIGNS BILL TO PROVIDE MORE CASH

WASHINGTON, June 25 — President Roosevelt today signed the new national defense tax bill, which not only increases taxes by $1,000,000,000 a year, but boosts the constitution debt limit from $45,000,000,000 to $49,000,000,000.

Taft, Dewey Lose Some Delegates To Magnate

PHILADELPHIA, June 25 — Further gains for Wendell L. Willkie were reported today at a meeting of New Jersey's 32 delegates to the Republican national convention. Willkie supporters said New Jersey will cast a minimum of 12 votes for him on the first ballot and 26 or 27 on the second ballot.

PHILADELPHIA, June 25 — Sudden demands that the Republican party pledge itself to the strongest possible anti-war plank and eliminate all reference of aid to any foreign people, plunged the G.O.P. platform committee into a new deadlock today.

PHILADELPHIA, June 25 — A mild boom for former President Herbert Hoover today vied with a western revolt against the Wendell Willkie "blitzkrieg" for the spotlight at the second session of the Republican presidential convention.

An unexpected anti-war revolt within the resolution committee, however, may provide the day's sensation. A group of isolationists, in control of the subcommittee platform writers, already have put new teeth into the anti-war declaration, the denunciation of President Roosevelt's military aid to the allies, and the attack on Secretary Hull's reciprocal trading program.

The isolationists won in the subcommittee but must carry their fight through the full resolutions committee. Later, they may have to defend their work on the floor of the convention. But they have succeeded in rewriting a large part of the test platform drafted last week by the pre-convention committee headed by Alf M. Landon.

SPANISH PRINCE BARRED AFTER ASSISTING ALLIES

The prince joined the French army after leaving the Belgian forces following capitulation of King Leopold.

Large Sedan Hits Hiking Youth, Continues On Way

Sheriff Charles Radcliff and deputies were searching Tuesday for clues which might lead to the arrest of a hit-skip driver who struck Orville Mayes, eighteen-year-old youth from Point Pleasant, West Virginia, as he was walking along Route 23, one mile south of Circleville late Monday afternoon. The youth was picked up by the Albough car was released when Mayes failed to connect it with the accident. Portsmouth police also stopped a suspected car, but later released it after investigation.

Deputy Sheriff Bryan Custer called the State Highway Patrol, who immediately broadcast the accident, but so far the report has brought no answer from police of southern Ohio towns or from the Highway Patrol. Due to the scant amount of evidence obtained, identification of the hit-skip car will be difficult, Deputy Sheriff Earl Weaver stated.

France In Deep Mourning As Fighting Ends Under Terms Of Dictated Peace

BORDEAUX, June 25—Conquered France today observed a solemn day of mourning as the big guns of her hard-pressed armies became silent under the dictates of victorious Germany and Italy.

All cafes, cinemas and theatres will remain closed, and the tri-color will remain at half-mast. At 11 o'clock (5 a. m. Circleville time) one minute of absolute silence was observed in homage to the soldier dead.

It was expected that later in the day Premier Marshal Henri Petain will deliver a radio broadcast to the French people.

Although at 1:35 a. m. fighting ceased on the blood-soaked battle fields, there was little in Bordeaux to mark cessation of hostilities. End of the war came as an anti-climax to the French people, for the public has known for some days that it was inevitable that France bow to the dictates of Chancellor Hitler and Premier Mussolini.

As the battered French armies relaxed in the first rest they have known since the invasion of the low countries on May 10, the civilian population filed into churches and with heads bowed in national grief, prayed for the souls of their dead, their wounded, and some, for the living.

At 9 o'clock this morning the Petain Government met to study the Italo-German armistice terms, and to take the formal moves necessary to complete the French surrender. Full details of the armistice terms will not be made public until they have been formally ratified by the Bordeaux government, it was stated.

STATE TO PLACE 3,793 MORE LADS IN C. C. C. CAMPS

COLUMBUS, June 25 — Plans were disclosed today by Welfare Director Charles L. Sherwood for the enrollment during July of 3,793 Ohioans in the Civilian Conservation Corps.

The welfare director's announcement came on the heels of notification from Washington that relief restrictions previously imposed on CCC applicants had been lifted.

Applications will be taken from unemployed young men whose families are in moderate circumstances. However, preference in the enrollment would continue to be given applicants from relief families.

Director Sherwood was recently named CCC Selection Administrator for Ohio. Applicants desiring to join the CCC should make immediate applications to the nearest CCC selection agency in their community.

UNION OF TAFT, DEWEY HINTED

Kentucky Delegation Takes Lead To Form Coalition Of Two Forces

By Carl Turner
PHILADELPHIA, June 25 — The first, seemingly authentic move to bring about coalition of Taft and Dewey forces to stem the tide of Willkie sentiment before Republican National Convention delegates begin balloting for a presidential nominee developed today.

From sources considered reliable came word that at 4 p. m. the Kentucky delegation would caucus to discuss sponsoring a proposal to consolidate strength of U. S. Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio and District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey of New York.

Kentucky members, enroute to the forenoon convention session, were not immediately available for confirmation of the report, but observers considered the Kentucky camp a likely spot for such a move to originate as the state's 22 votes are assumed to be about equally divided between Taft and Dewey, with no Willkie sentiment evident.

The version at Taft headquarters was that the Ohioan would head the proposed coalition ticket with Dewey running for vice president. (Continued on Page Three)

MARKET WEAKER WITH LEADERS OFF TWO POINTS

NEW YORK, June 25 — The stock market weakened on a wide front late in the forenoon today, with some leaders dropping one to two points.

Trading was quiet at the opening, but volume picked up as the market began to slide in the second hour.

Profit-taking on the fair-sized rally of yesterday was the prime influence.

Steel shares were led downward by U. S. Steel, which tumbled two points before meeting support. Bethlehem's decline was equally large, while National, Republic and Youngstown Sheet & Tube each dropped a point or more.

Coppers generally, along with oils, rubbers, rails, rail equipments and motors, were well under last night's closing quotations.

Commodities displayed easier tendencies in sympathy with the slide in stocks. Grains eased fractions, while cotton slipped a few points. Bonds were barely changed.

OFFICES REMAIN OPEN

The county engineer's, the clerk of courts' and the recorder's offices are now open during the noon hour. The county treasurer and auditor reported Monday that they would be open at noon for business.

Hitler Names General To Head Commission To Watch New Land

LONDON, June 25 — Great Britain will continue to fight and still hopes to "rescue France from bondage" Prime Minister Winston Churchill declared in the House of Commons today.

The prime minister expressed "profound sorrow" over France's surrender to Germany and Italy, but said he would waste no time in "hard words or reproaches."

BERLIN, June 25—Occupation of the Atlantic Coast of France by German troops was announced in the official communique issued by the Nazi high command today. The statement said: "After six weeks, the campaign in France has ended in an unparalleled victory for German arms. This morning our troops advanced to the Atlantic Coast of France."

LONDON, June 25 — "Highly successful" bombing raids on military objectives in Germany and Holland were reported today by the British air ministry.

ROME, June 25 — New British bombing raids on Tripoli, Cagliari and Palermo were reported in the Italian war communique today. The Palermo raids were repulsed, the statement said.

By International News Service
With the roar of battle replaced by the stillness of death in continental Europe, Chancellor Hitler and Premier Mussolini today moved swiftly to consolidate the territory their armies have conquered in order that the full force of their joint military might can be hurled against England.

As the fighting ceased the moment the hands of the clock moved to 1:35 a. m. (6:35 p. m. Monday, Circleville time), the totalitarian dictators began without delay to speed matters up so that there will be no waste of time in launching the assault against their sole remaining adversary.

While it was not officially announced, it was considered almost a certainty that immediately after the "cease firing" order was given Italian legions began pouring through the Alpine passes to occupy strategic portions of southeastern France.

Three Civilians Killed

Hitler, at the very moment the guns ceased firing in France, was sending wave after wave of bombing planes over England, and the British officially reported that three civilians had been killed and 13 wounded by Nazi bombs. It was stated that the death toll possibly might rise to five.

Likewise, Hitler announced appointment of General Von Stuelpnagel to head the German commission which is charged with seeing to it that France carries out all the terms stipulated in the Italo-German-French armistice agreements. This commission will set up headquarters at Wiesbaden and will convene as soon as France names her representatives.

BOMB FOUND ON TRAIN RESULTS IN G-MAN PROBE

NEW YORK, June 25—Under a veil of deepest secrecy, G-men and local police today were attempting to solve the mystery of a highly explosive aerial bomb which was found on the luggage rack of a Pullman car of a Washington to New York train when it arrived here last night.

The four-inch wide chamber of the 18-inch long bomb was packed with three or four pounds of explosives. The pins were attached and it was ready for firing, it was learned. It was encased in a metal container which contained no markings or other clues as to its origin.

The bomb was found by the Pullman porter and turned over to local police who called in G-men. One theory was that it may have been placed aboard the train at Aberdeen, Md. where the army maintains proving grounds for explosives.

ARMY OVER QUOTA
COLUMBUS, June 25—The 5th U. S. Army Corps is well over its quota of 1810 enlistments for June, Brigadier General Campbell B. Hodges announced today. The corps quota for July will be approximately 4,000 men, the commanding officer said.

picked from a police lineup in Cincinnati by Bank Employees N. E. Reichelderfer and Katherine Mead on June 3, but they failed to connect Phillips with the robbery.

Whitt and Phillips were captured after their Cincinnati automobile when they drove their automobile to a Cincinnati garage and ordered it washed. Frank Nichols, garage attendant, found a package containing $2,000 on the floor of the garage and called the police. Officers found the remaining stolen money in a secret compartment in the car, and arrested the two when they returned.

Neither Whitt nor Phillips is expected to take the stand, and Michael G. Heintz, Gilbert Mauser and John Waters, attorneys for the two, are expected to close the defense with but few witnesses. The men are being tried on a charge of entering a bank when armed for the purpose of committing a felony. If convicted, Judge Outcalt must grant them mercy or sentence them to life imprisonment. If mercy is granted, the term will be 30 years.

JOHNSON FLAYS FRENCH DEFEAT AS BLUNDERING

CHICAGO, June 25 — "Bone-headed blundering" has brought about the defeat of France, and the peril of Great Britain and the unpreparedness of the United States, in the opinion of Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, former NRA administrator.

In an address to delegates attending the 36th annual convention of the Advertising Federation of America, Gen. Johnson assailed the failure of Great Britain and this country to take advantage of their tremendous industrial superiority, saying:

"Industry is war and war is industry. Only three countries really ever had the wealth to make war—England, Germany and the United States. Of these three, ours is immeasurably stronger, much stronger than all the rest put together.

"Yes, ours is the richest galleon that ever sailed a pirate-infested sea. Yet, like a fat and inverted porcupine ready to be scooped out by any eager predatory talons, we lie here almost helpless in spite of our essential, insurmountable strength."

SERVICE CLUBS STAGE ANNUAL SOFTBALL GAME

Circleville Kiwanians and Rotarians were putting the liniment bottle to good use Tuesday after their annual softball game played Monday evening at the Pickaway Country Club. The ball game preceded a buffet supper served in the clubhouse.

Just who won the ball game will probably not be known, because Frank Lynch pitched and umpired for the Rotary, and four of the Kiwanians filled in for the Rotarians. Some said the Kiwanians on the Rotary team did more to help provide a Kiwanis victory than they did for the team on which they were playing.

The game was called when wives of the club members thought it was time for supper.

In Father-Daughter Roles

TWO of the most powerful dramatic roles ever written are portrayed by Adolphe Menjou and Maureen O'Hara in "A Bill of Divorcement." Menjou enacts the character of the pathetic, shell-shocked veteran whose unexpected recovery and return home from a sanitarium brings a tragic revelation to his daughter, played by Maureen O'Hara, and upsets the plans of his divorced wife to remarry. Fay Bainter and Herbert Marshall share stellar honors in this RKO Radio picture, starting Wednesday at the Grand Theatre.

County Wheat Combining Starts Too Early, Says Blair, Extension Agent

Stating that he believed wheat combining in Pickaway County begins too early, County Agent F. K. Blair released Tuesday the following report, compiled by J. E. McClintock in conjunction with Ohio State University and the United States Department of Agriculture, for the benefit of Pickaway County wheat farmers:

Ohio farmers are becoming more efficient in the operation of combine harvesters, but a lot of grain still is wasted by too early harvesting and by operating the combines with adjustments and at speeds not recommended by the manufacturer of the equipment.

Professor G. W. McCuen, agricultural engineer, Ohio State University believes that beginning harvest too early is the worst fault of combine operation in this state. The only sure way to check the time to cut wheat is to make a moisture test of the grain—self.

Professor McCuen suggests that farmers shell out a pint of wheat from the field about 10 days after they would have started a binder and have the sample tested for moisture at the elevator. Wheat that tests about 14 percent moisture can be combined safely.

Shattering Loss Vital

Worries about the amount of wheat lost by shattering when it is permitted to stand until it is dead ripe are unwarranted because very little wheat is lost in that way. Several other types of harvesting losses take much more grain than ever was lost in Ohio by shattering.

Too little clearance between the concaves and cylinder of the combine will increase the difficulty of separating the grain from the finely chopped straw. It is better to leave an occasional grain of wheat in the heads than to grind the straw so finely that much more grain is lost through failure to separate.

One farmer who found some unthreshed grains asked the combine operator to set up the concaves. This was done and the loss at the cylinder was reduced but more than six bushels of wheat per acre came through without separation. Readjustment of the concaves reduced this waste more than five bushels per acre without increasing the loss at the cylinder appreciably.

The rate of speed at which to operate the combine most efficiently is stated by the manufacturer. The rate also is influenced by the condition of the crop and by the height of cutting. Adjustments should be made in the first round or two, not after the field is half cut.

Farmers producing both oats and wheat will find it profitable to let wheat stand a few extra days if the oats become dead ripe before the wheat harvest is finished. Oats lodge and shatter badly when dead ripe and the liability of loss is much greater than from ripe wheat.

"The Gentleman from Indiana"

THE REPUBLICAN CONVENTION

Ladies and Gentlemen of the Convention:
Members of your party and millions of members of my party agree on fundamentals. We are not Fascists, Communists or New Deal National Socialists. We are Americans. And may I remind you that it was your Abraham Lincoln who said, "Soberly it is now no child's play to save the principles of Thomas Jefferson from total overthrow in this nation."

Those principles are nearer total overthrow now than they were in Lincoln's time. Men in high place in Washington have abandoned the great principles which made Jefferson the inspiration of Lincoln. These include economy in public affairs, low taxes, a minimum of debt, a faithful watch over the public credit, preservation of States Rights and local self-government, respect for Congress, the Constitution and the Courts, the preservation of free enterprise, and a PETTENGILL foreign policy of continental Americanism as set forth in the Monroe Doctrine, written by a disciple of Jefferson and on his advice.

May I remind you further that in your first platform adopted in 1856 you dedicated your party to "restoring the action of the federal government to the principles of Washington and Jefferson." Four years later you repeated that pledge and sent Lincoln to the White House.

That was a good platform. Another was the Democratic platform of 1932. Thousands of Republicans have said it was the best platform written in their life-time. Why don't you reaffirm your platform pledge of 1856 and adopt the Democratic platform of 1932? It has not been used. It is as good as new.

This is no time to be all things to all men. For example, an Eastern Republican told me recently, "The only thing Roosevelt ever did which I approved was the Economy Act of March 1933. But if he will take us into this war he can have his third term." Don't try to write a platform to hold this man's vote. Let theerring brother go.

If you are not a party of sincere opposition, you have no justification in our two party system. You have no place in America. You will deserve defeat and no doubt will get what you deserve. But the Republic will get what it does not deserve, because you failed the Republic.

If, however, you return to first principles and challenge National Socialism in its stronghold in Washington, you will "deserve well of the Republic" whether you win or lose; and you may win.

If you rededicate your party to the "principles of Washington and Jefferson" I particularly commend to your study Washington's Farewell Address and Jefferson's views on foreign affairs.

'THE MORTAL STORM'

Yet the Monroe Doctrine whurled in the teeth of a Euroy in which there was not a sing free nation except Switzerland. We can survive as our father did, with Europe under dictatorship, if that be its hard fate, we but have the stuff our father had.

A quarter century ago we parted from the Washington-Jefferson principle. We set forth to save "democracy." May I remind you that in 1918 your party carried both houses of Congress, so that in such States as Indiana, Iowa, and Nebraska, not a single Democrat was elected? May I remind you that after the World War was won Mr. Roosevelt was a candidate for Vice President on a platform to ratify our plunge into European politics and that he was defeated by a bigger percentage of the two party population than he ever received? We cannot remain "the land of the free," unless we are "the home of the brave."

In the hands of Lincoln Republicans and Jeffersonian Democrats lies the fate of what Lincoln once nobly called "this last best hope of earth."

Farmers producing both oats and wheat will find it profitable to let wheat stand a few extra days if the oats become dead ripe before the wheat harvest is finished. Oats lodge and shatter badly when dead ripe and the liability of loss is much greater than from ripe wheat.

Ladies and Gentlemen of the Convention: Members of your party and millions of members of my party agree on fundamentals. We are not Fascists, Communists or New Deal National Socialists. We are Americans. And may I remind you that it was your Abraham Lincoln who said, "Soberly it is now no child's play to save the principles of Thomas Jefferson from total overthrow in this nation."

Those principles are nearer total overthrow now than they were in Lincoln's time. Men in high place in Washington have abandoned the great principles which made Jefferson the inspiration of Lincoln. These include economy in public affairs, low taxes, a minimum of debt, a faithful watch over the public credit, preservation of States Rights and local self-government, respect for Congress, the Constitution and the Courts, the preservation of free enterprise, and a foreign policy of continental Americanism as set forth in the Monroe Doctrine, written by a disciple of Jefferson and on his advice.

May I remind you further that in your first platform adopted in 1856 you dedicated your party to "restoring the action of the federal government to the principles of Washington and Jefferson." Four years later you repeated that pledge and sent Lincoln to the White House.

That was a good platform. Another was the Democratic platform of 1932. Thousands of Republicans have said it was the best platform written in their life-time. Why don't you reaffirm your platform pledge of 1856 and adopt the Democratic platform of 1932? It has not been used. It is as good as new.

This is no time to be all things to all men. For example, an Eastern Republican told me recently, "The only thing Roosevelt ever did which I approved was the Economy Act of March 1933. But if he will take us into this war he can have his third term." Don't try to write a platform to hold this man's vote. Let the erring brother go.

If you are not a party of sincere opposition, you have no justification in our two party system. You have no place in America. You will deserve defeat and no doubt will get what you deserve. But the Republic will get what it does not deserve, because you failed the Republic.

If, however, you return to first principles and challenge National Socialism in its stronghold in Washington, you will "deserve well of the Republic" whether you win or lose, and you may win.

If you rededicate your party to the "principles of Washington and Jefferson" I particularly commend to your study Washington's Farewell Address and Jefferson's views on foreign affairs.

Said Jefferson: "Let us take our stand on a ground perfectly neutral toward all nations. At this very moment they would have drawn us into a war on the side of England (against France). After plunging us in all the broils of European nations there would remain but one act to close our tragedy, the break-up of our Union."

It is glibly said today that we can not preserve free institutions in a world of dictators. History proves the contrary. Granting that the task may be difficult, now, as then, the fact remains that the Declaration of Independence was written in a time of dictators and to free us from them. George III was a dictator. Napoleon was the 18th Century Hitler. Did not the Louisiana Territory belong to a dictator, and did not Jefferson buy it to remove its menace in foreign hands? And was not the Holy Alliance an early model of the present Rome, Berlin, Moscow axis?

PARTY WARNED TO HALT TREND TO DICTATORSHIP

Rep. Martin, Chairman of Convention, Critical of Administration

the faith of the founder of this republic.

"This great patriotic call is worthy of a crusade."

As to what the Republican party could be expected to do about it if restored to power, Martin declared it would take every possible step to keep American institutions intact both from enemies from within and from without—an "America at peace with the world; an America untainted by hatreds and fears."

To achieve such a peace both at home and abroad, he pledged the party to a purge of all "trojan horse" elements from the government in Washington, to the prosecution of a national defense program "amply to protect our shores," and to a drastic revision of New Deal policies—spending and social—to restore economic stability.

But he promised no fiscal miracles. Additional taxes would have to be levied for national defense and to straighten out the financial chaos which he accused the New Deal of bringing on the U. S. Treasury.

"In this great convention," Martin asserted, "The Republican party will rise above partisanship and narrow political expediency. It will respond to that responsibility. We will not fail our country in her hour of need."

Personal Liberty Jeopardized

"We have seen with heavy hearts our own nation, for seven years, drifting toward one-man government and national bankruptcy. . . All that is precious to us, personal liberty, equal rights, equal justice, constitutional government—these are in danger of being extinguished."

"We must preserve our country from the schemes and treachery of those unsympathetic to our constitutional republic and who would destroy it. . . all 'fifth columnists' must be rooted out and thrown out of our government. We must not permit political liberty to be used as a mask for plotters against the American system. The constitution must not be misused to destroy our constitution."

Warning that the free American government could be destroyed just as readily by "economic betrayal" as "military betrayal," Martin added:

"Our people may well thank God there is in this nation one party which refuses to coddle or foster the enemies of free government."

Martin excoriated the New Deal and President Roosevelt unmercifully. He said:

"We have had seven years of blundering and contradictory policies. We have had a nightmare of experimentation and spending. We have had national planning without a plan. We have had managed economy with neither management nor economy."

"The depression continues. Millions are still without jobs. The public treasury is empty. The debt limit of 45 billions will soon be passed. Enormous taxes are in the offing."

Story of Failure

"The record is a somber story of failure and futility and broken promises. . . That is the record of the New Deal. That record will never be approved by the American people. They will repudiate it next November. America wants to go back to sanity, progress and peace. Peace at home. Peace abroad."

MINERVA JANE WOLFE DIES IN LAURELVILLE

Mrs. Minerva Jane Wolfe, 81, of Laurelvile, died Monday at 12:45 p. m. from complications. Born November 15, 1858, in Hocking County, she was the daughter of Joseph and Mirah Iles McBroon.

tween Russian and Romanian troops.

LONDON, June 25—Dispatches from Budapest to the United States reporting Soviet-Romanian clashes on the Bessarabian frontier found no confirmation today at the Romanian embassy in London.

Reports that the Soviets had invaded Romanian territory across the Dniester River frontier could not be confirmed elsewhere, and the embassy in London said it had not heard any such report.

LONDON, June 25—By agreement with Greece, Turkey is strengthening her military forces along the Bulgarian border, particularly in the region of Adrianople, Exchange (British) Telegraph agency reported today in a dispatch from Istanbul.

LONDON, June 25—Turkey and Syria have signed an agreement refusing to recognize any change in the status quo of the eastern Mediterranean, the London Evening Standard reported today.

No "third party" actions in this area will be recognized, the agreement stated.

The standard reported dispatch of three Turkish divisions of the Syrian frontier.

of war in many months, as for the first time since early last September sirens sent Londoners scurrying to air raid shelters. Although the air raid warning in London lasted several hours, there was no report of any bombs actually being dropped in that region. The bombs were launched principally over southwestern and north-eastern Britain.

Reynaud May Join

Simultaneously England moved swiftly to extend her blockade to French European territories, placing France—the ally of a week ago—in the same category as Britain's other adversaries. It was considered significant, however, that French colonial possessions with the exception of Corsica in the Mediterranean, were not included in the blockade order. Britain is doing everything possible to keep the French colonies fighting against Germany and Italy under leadership of a French national committee in exile in London. It was considered possible that former Premier Paul Reynaud may soon arrive in Britain to take a position in the French government-in-exile.

From Tokyo came a Reuters (British) news agency report that the Japanese navy ministry had dispatched several warships from South China waters to Haiphong, "to watch. . . conditions relative to transport of goods to China via French Indo-China." Only yesterday the Japanese officially demanded that Britain cease shipments to the Chinese through Burma and Indo-China. In view of reports from Nippon, and the surrender of the French, observers were of the opinion that drastic developments soon may be expected in the Far East.

VOICE...of the...PEOPLE

Ashville, Ohio June 20, 1940

Editor of the Circleville Herald:

Twenty two years ago the flow of American fighting men helped stop the Germans on the Western Front in the war to end wars. As one of the boys that was over there with the Rainbow Division permit me enough space to say a few words about the present war. As we know now the heroic efforts of our brave American boys were in vain. Then why should we sacrifice our sons again on the altar of greed? This war in Europe could easily have been averted if it were not for the greed of European countries after the war of 1914-18. Why? Ask yourself after the world war of a generation ago was the present war necessary. First the terms imposed by our erstwhile allies were so severe that it made possible the rise of Hitler into power. It is my honest opinion had the treaty of Versailles been more lenient we would have never had to contend with Hitler.

Second just how and why was Germany allowed to rearm after the first world conflict surely France and England had knowledge of their rearmament program. I believe it is just to say that both of these countries must have helped them do it by selling them much of their needed products for Hitler's mad conquest of Europe. As the Roman empire flourished and decayed so it seems that has France and Britain. Regardless where our sympathies lie and I am sure there is no one more in sympathy with France than the veterans who left their buddies buried under her soil regardless of the causes of this war before we again see American blood shed in vain. As class hatred has been predominant in France, communism has been made itself felt and has undermined the foundations of her democratic government.

Had the French people the spirit of a real democracy Hitler might not have had such easy going. While it is evident that there is no more heroic fighting men than those of France who although poorly equipped with the modern implements of warfare have so valiantly defended their country. The rest of the world and particularly our country should hang its head in shame to see brave men butchered by a mad demon. Why? You ask should our country be ashamed. Because dear readers we are as poorly equipped as France or England to combat an adversary such as Germany. Surely with the wealth of this nation we would not have to send our sons against airplanes and armor as was done in the last war with nothing but rifles to defend themselves. Did you know in the last war that our military equipment nothing except the Springfield rifles were taken to France the rest even gas masks of the first troops were supplied by France and England.

It seems to me rather than to meddle in a condition not our own making that we should mend our own broken wires and strive to see that here in the U. S. is the only form of government for all mankind and to profit by the mistakes of European nations. Should we have been attacked by an enemy during our depression of 1932-33 would it be saying too much to assert that our citizens would have been in the frame of mind to follow some ruthless leader such as Hitler. Let us not lose sight of the fact that only so long as our people are and do enjoy in fact as well as spirit the benefits of a true democracy only then shall we have a united people. Such things as the bonus army being driven from Washington and the 1933 economy law which deprived our defenders of 1917-18 their right in many cases a place to sleep those things whether we like to believe it or not are the roots of a cancer like Hitler.

Even now while we are preparing to donate to the Red Cross and other worthy institutions for relief in the war area many of our boys of 1917-18 are going about hungry and homeless their families and widows starving, the boys who so proudly marched away to make the world safer for "democracy" have come to believe that they only made it safer for millionaires and war mongers who seek to make a profit on the life blood of American manhood. Then let's for God's sake before it is too late turn to our own country before we try to police Europe and really and truly make this country by our own acts and deeds the country where God still reigns and that we do have the right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. Let's rid our country of all subversive elements and fifth column activities. Let's get down on our knees if necessary and give thanks to God that we live in America and that Old Glory still waves over our land and that we want to keep it waving and that our boys shall not have died in vain. Let's arm as no country has ever armed before and then only use our armament and strength to protect our shores and not the shores of Europe regardless of who it may be.

Sources close to Taft said that if an understanding between the two rival camps materializes, Taft would head the ticket. They represented the Ohioan as being interested only in first place, at the same time conceding that Dewey would bring "great strength" to a combination ticket.

Hotel lobbies have been filled with discussions of a Taft-Dewey agreement, but if Kentucky initiates such a step, it will be the first delegation to formally lend its weight to the proposal.

mond, Head, the customary route for vessels bound for the mainland.

No information was forthcoming from Pearl Harbor, the huge naval base adjacent to Honolulu on the island of Oahu, but the rumor persisted that the ships were bound either for their home ports on the Pacific coast or for the Panama Canal.

The naval authority refused to discuss the reported movement added that orders for "whatever is taking place, if anything," did not clear through Hawaiian naval district headquarters, the customary channel, the inference being that if the fleet is on the move, it is acting on orders from Washington.

In the long column of vessels were seen battleships, aircraft carriers and hospital ship, the latter indicating a long voyage. Hospital ships ordinarily are not taken out on short exercises.

by Californians and John W. Haigis, of the Massachusetts delegation, on the eve of the former President's appearance as the convention's guest of honor tonight. Friends of Hoover hope his address will so impress the convention as to lay the groundwork for his renomination later in the week.

Taft Still Favored

Senator Robert A. Taft, of Ohio, meanwhile continues as the favorite in the race for the Republican nomination, although both he and Thomas E. Dewey have lost delegates to Willkie. Taft's losses are said to have been overcome by gains in Dewey territory.

The Willkie movement appears to be fading under a succession of attacks from midwestern and far-western congressmen. Willkie's tactics of invading delegations, pledged to other candidates, have aroused a storm of resentment and literally grouped his rivals into a single "beat Willkie" camp.

One prominent convention official remarked:

"The Willkie boom has been poorly handled. They have spent too much money on him in too short a time, trying to make him a political Paul Revere. Winning a nomination, like Paul Revere's ride is a long race and Willkie seems to be stopping."

Western congressmen have attacked the utility executive furiously. One group of 100 denounced his record and demanded his candidacy be rejected by the convention. Governor Harlan J. Bushfield, of South Dakota, entered himself as a rival to Willkie and gobbled up the state's eight delegates as a counter-blow. Senator John Thomas, of Idaho, announced he would not be a candidate for re-election to the senate if Willkie were nominated.

fore the "cease firing" order, however, France's valiant soldiers continued to battle bravely against the foe. An official communique, probably the last to be issued by the French regarding fighting in this war, revealed only a few hours before hostilities ended:

"The Germans progressed slightly at Charentes, occupying Angouleme. They also reached Aix-les-Bains and the banks of the Vorette.

"Italian attacks in the Alps continued throughout the day, but were checked at the frontier except at Maurienne, where the enemy advanced a little further than Lanslebourg, in the coastal sector, and occupied Menton. Our positions of resistance are intact on the whole front in the Alps."

PARTY WARNED TO HALT TREND TO DICTATORSHIP

The faith of the founder of this republic.

"This great patriotic call is worthy of a crusade."

As to what the Republican party could be expected to do about it if restored to power, Martin declared it would take every possible step to keep American institutions intact both from enemies from within and from without—an "America at peace with the world; an America untainted by hatreds and fears."

To achieve such a peace both at home and abroad, he pledged the party to a purge of all "trojan horse" elements from the government in Washington, to the prosecution of a national defense program "amply to protect our shores," and to a drastic revision of New Deal policies—spending and social—to restore economic stability.

But he promised no fiscal miracles. Additional taxes would have to be levied for national defense and to straighten out the financial chaos which he accused the New Deal of bringing on the U. S. Treasury.

"In this great convention," Martin asserted, "The Republican party will rise above partisanship and narrow political expediency. It will respond to that responsibility. We will not fail our country in her hour of need."

Personal Liberty Jeopardized

"We have seen with heavy hearts our own nation, for seven years, drifting toward one-man government and national bankruptcy. . . All that is precious to us, personal liberty, equal rights, equal justice, constitutional government—these are in danger of being extinguished."

"We must preserve our country from the schemes and treachery of those unsympathetic to our constitutional republic and who would destroy it. . . All 'fifth columnists' must be rooted out and thrown out. 'Trojan horses' must be barred from our government. We must not permit political liberty to be used as a mask for plotters against the American system. The constitution must not be misused to destroy our constitution."

Warning that the free American government could be destroyed as just as readily by "economic betrayal" as "military betrayal," Martin added:

"Our people may well thank God there is in this nation one party which refuses to coddle or foster the enemies of free government."

Martin excoriated the New Deal and President Roosevelt unmercifully. He said:

"We have had seven years of blundering and contradictory policies. We have had a nightmare of experimentation and spending. We have had national planning without a plan. We have had managed economy with neither management nor economy."

"The depression continues. Millions are still without jobs. The public treasury is empty. The debt limit of 45 billions will soon be passed. Enormous taxes are in the offing."

Story of Failure

"The record is a somber story of failure and futility and broken promises. . . That is the record of the New Deal. That record will never be approved by the American people. They will repudiate it next November. America wants to go back to sanity, progress and peace. Peace at home. Peace abroad."

RUMORS DENIED OF ARMED CLASH IN BESSARABIA

LONDON, June 25—Dispatches from Budapest to the United States reporting Soviet-Romanian clashes on the Bessarabian frontier found no confirmation today at the Romanian embassy in London.

Reports that the Soviets had invaded Romanian territory across the Dniester River frontier could not be confirmed elsewhere, and the embassy in London said it had not heard any such report.

LONDON, June 25—By agreement with Greece, Turkey is strengthening her military forces along the Bulgarian border, particularly in the region of Adrianople, Exchange (British) Telegraph agency reported today in a dispatch from Istanbul.

LONDON, June 25—Turkey and Syria have signed an agreement refusing to recognize any change in the status quo of the eastern Mediterranean, the London Evening Standard reported today.

No "third party" actions in this area will be recognized, the agreement stated.

The standard reported dispatch of three Turkish divisions of the Syrian frontier.

Londoners Hear Alarm As German Planes Reach Metropolitan Area

Simultaneously England moved swiftly to extend her blockade to French European territories, placing France—the ally of a week ago—in the same category as Britain's other adversaries. It was considered significant, however, that French colonial possessions, with the exception of Corsica in the Mediterranean, were not included in the blockade order. Britain is doing everything possible to keep the French colonies fighting against Germany and Italy under leadership of a French national committee in exile in London. It was considered possible that former Premier Paul Reynaud may soon arrive in Britain to take a position in the French government-in-exile.

From Tokyo came a Reuters (British) news agency report that the Japanese navy ministry had dispatched several warships from South China waters to Haiphong, "to watch. . . conditions relative to transport of goods to China via French Indo-China." Only yesterday the Japanese officially demanded that Britain cease shipments to the Chinese through Burma and Indo-China. In view of reports from Nippon, and the surrender of the French, observers were of the opinion that drastic developments soon may be expected in the Far East.

Second just how and why was Germany allowed to rearm after the first world conflict surely France and England had knowledge of their rearmament program. I believe it is just to say that both of these countries must have helped them do it by selling them much of their needed products for Hitler's mad conquest of Europe. As the Roman empire flourished and decayed so it seems that has France and Britain. Regardless where our sympathies lie and I am sure there is no one more in sympathy with France than the veterans who left their buddies buried under her soil regardless of this fact we must pause to consider the causes of this war before we again see American blood shed in vain. As class hatred has been predominant in France, communism has been made itself felt and has undermined the foundations of her democratic government.

Had the French people the spirit of a real democracy Hitler might not have had such easy going. While it is evident that there is no more heroic fighting men than those of France who although poorly equipped with the modern implements of warfare have so valiantly defended their country. The rest of the world and particularly our country should hang its head in shame to see brave men butchered by a mad demon. Why? You ask our country be ashamed. Because dear readers we are as poorly equipped as France or England to combat an adversary such as Germany. Surely with the wealth of this nation we would not have to send our sons against airplanes and armor as was done in the last war with nothing but rifles to defend themselves. Did you know in the last war that of our military equipment nothing except the Springfield rifles were taken to France the rest even gas masks of the first troops were supplied by France and England.

It seems to me rather than to meddle in a condition not our own making that we should mend our own broken wires and strive to see that here in the U. S. is the only form of government for all mankind and to profit by the mistakes of European nations. Should we have been attacked by an enemy during our depression of 1932-33 would it be saying too much to assert that our citizens would have been in the frame of mind to follow some ruthless leader such as Hitler. Let us not lose sight of the fact that only so long as our people are and do enjoy in fact as well as spirit the benefits of a true democracy only then shall we have a united people. Such things as the bonus army being driven from Washington and the 1933 economy law which deprived our defenders of 1917-18 their right in many cases a place to sleep those things whether we like to believe it or not are the roots of a cancer like Hitler.

VOICE...of the...PEOPLE

Ashville, Ohio
June 20, 1940
Editor of the Circleville Herald:

Twenty two years ago the flower of American fighting men helped stop the Germans on the Western Front in the war to end wars. As one of the boys that was over there with the Rainbow Division permit me enough space to say a few words about the present war. As we know now the heroic efforts of our brave American boys were in vain. Then why should we sacrifice our sons again on the altar of greed? This war in Europe could easily have been averted if it were not for the greed of European countries after the war of 1914-18. Why? Ask yourself after the world war of a generation ago was the present war necessary. First the terms imposed by our erstwhile allies were so severe that it made possible the rise of Hitler into power. It is my honest opinion had the treaty of Versailles been more lenient we would have never had to contend with Hitler.

Second just how and why was Germany allowed to rearm after the first world conflict surely France and England had knowledge of their rearmament program. I believe it is just to say that both of these countries must have helped them do it by selling them much of their needed products for Hitler's mad conquest of Europe. Sources close to Taft said that if an understanding between the two rival camps materializes, Taft would head the ticket. They represented the Ohioans as being interested only in first place, at the same time conceding that Dewey would bring "great strength" to a combination ticket.

Hotel lobbies have been filled with discussions of a Taft-Dewey agreement, but if Kentucky initiates such a step, it will be the first delegation to formally lend its weight to the proposal.

Taft Still Favored

Senator Robert A. Taft, of Ohio, meanwhile continues as the favorite in the race for the Republican nomination, although both he and Thomas E. Dewey have lost delegates to Willkie. Taft's losses are said to have been overcome by gains in Dewey territory.

The Willkie movement appears to be fading under a succession of attacks from midwestern and far-western congressmen. Willkie's tactics of invading delegations, pledged to other candidates, have aroused a storm of resentment and literally grouped his rivals into a single "beat Willkie" camp.

One prominent convention official remarked: "The Willkie boom has been poorly handled. They have spent too much money on him in too short a time, trying to make him a political Paul Revere. Winning a nomination, like Paul Revere's ride is a long race and Willkie seems to be stopping."

Western congressmen have attacked the utility executive furiously. One group of 100 denounced his record and demanded his candidacy be rejected by the convention. Governor Harlan J. Bushfield, of South Dakota, entered himself as a rival to Willkie and gobbled up the state's eight delegates as a counter-blow. Senator John Thomas, of Idaho, announced he would not be a candidate for re-election to the senate if Willkie were nominated.

THE "GIMME" ERA

HONEST confession is not only good for the soul of the confessor; it may be profitable for other sinners. The shortcomings in France, in these years since the last war, were not sins in the ordinary acceptance of that word, but they were mistakes that ended in great disaster. And they were mistakes not only of judgment but of moral attitude.

So we find honest old Marshal Petain telling his fellow-countrymen the sad and bitter truth about their national catastrophe. He does it in a few simple, honest words. "Since our victory in the World War," he says, "a sense of enjoyment has predominated over the sense of sacrifice. We have sought more than we have given. We have not exerted enough effort. So today we are in distress."

Biblical history, and profane history too, is full of such examples. Perhaps every generation has to learn for itself the old truths—that men do not live unto themselves alone, that men as well as nations have responsibilities to others, that people should not seek more than they give, that life demands sacrifice.

Now, he adds, the French "will learn their lesson from the lost battle." But at what a vast and long-continued sacrifice!

And we Americans? Are we going to learn this lesson of life now from the tragedy of France and Britain, or only through the same bitter experience?

SUMMER DRAMA

A PHENOMENON of recent years is the sudden blossoming of summer theaters all over the country, in which good plays are given, with many leading stage and screen actors as performers. Such theaters along the Atlantic seaboard from Maine to the Carolinas are said to be setting a new record this season. More than 100 of them will be in full swing shortly, at summer resorts and in the small towns.

This dramatic expression is not confined to the East, although the big names seem to concentrate there.

Among the 600 to 900 actors to have roles are many famous names. Playgoers in the winter theatrical season pay high prices for a chance to see these people in plays, and have very limited opportunities to do so at any price.

The summer shows cost less. Production expenses are considerably lower than in the regular theatre, and could not be duplicated on the road. Yet there seems to be a hint here for allegedly dying commercial theatre. It is that there is plenty of patronage for good shows at reasonable prices.

It might as well be accepted that no political party can please any other political party.

Plenty of war on the air waves these days, but no casualties.

'ROUND CIRCLEVILLE . . . Hour by Hour

Pages From the Diary of An Antiquated Reporter:

Up early and pleased by the clear sky, having had enough of rain for the present. Chilly after the hot weather. A brief run into the countryside before heading for the post. Never saw crops looking better. At Uncle Sam's building did stop to chat with Fred Clark, and saw Les May and Harry Steinhauser in deep conversation.

Out and about the village and a stranger asked a question about a good eating place. Unconsciously did pause, awaiting announcement of the cash prize for answering this one. Must be that I am quiz happy, and no wonder, what with all the quiz programs on the radio these days. There one is, where ever the dial is turned.

There goes Lawrence Johnson, the insurance man and Democratic leader, and he hateloes. Had company Sunday aftnoon and when the company left Lawrence's hat fell also. One of the guests failed to wear a hat and forgot the fact.

Came a letter from Walter Leist, who is in the northland with Circleville's chub fleet. Jim Stout and Ed Bach have left the main fleet and are now on the French river seeking muskies. Pop Betz has caught a fish 50 inches long with an eleven inch tail spread, but is unable to identify it and had not weighed it when the letter was written. Jay Clark has taken to chewing tobacco in the hope of changing his luck for the better, but is seriously discouraged by the dribbles. Temperature ranging from 35 to 55, so the party has headed southward intending to stop over at Brevort.

Expected to attend the Kiwanis program and picnic in the evening, but an ache sent me home in the afternoon and never did get there. Later did hear fine reports of the event which always has been popular with me.

Elmer Stebleton came to the house with a big Great Northern Pike sent down from Minnesota by Joe Bell. Joe is up there with Bob Brehmer and family and reports good luck with both light and heavy tackle.

Listened in on the Republican keynoter and learned that which ever party wins in the Fall that this country is to be armed to the teeth. Glad of that, but do think we should have started long ago. Seems as though everyone except Americans knew we were practically helpless. But we will not be for long and before any invader can turn toward our shores we will be in a position to provide the proper kind of a reception.

Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON AND ROBERT S. ALLEN

BUSINESS WITH HITLER?

PHILADELPHIA — President Roosevelt doesn't know it yet, but the new Secretary of War, Henry L. Stimson, came near issuing a tart blast against his ex-chief, Herbert Hoover, just before he entered the Roosevelt Cabinet.

The incident is important, because it is the key to what is almost sure to be a big issue in the coming presidential campaign.

Mr. Stimson served for four years as Hoover's Secretary of State, but this did not prevent him from becoming extremely wrathful when he heard about the talks Hoover was having with certain Republican leaders.

Hoover had been pointing out that the Allies were defeated, and that Roosevelt had been staking everything on an Allied victory. But now it was no use for the United States to go down with them.

So whether the American people liked it or not, Hoover told friends, Hitler was going to rule Europe, and the United States would have to be practical and do business with him. What the country needed was a man in the White House who had not alienated Hitler and who had contacts in German.

Hoover did not state specifically that he considered himself this man (he lunched with Goering last year). But it was obvious he had himself in mind.

These conversations came to the attention of Mr. Stimson and also of Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University and a Republican, but like Stimson a strong believer in Roosevelt's foreign policy. They talked about making some statement, but finally decided not to do so.

However, this same "appeasement" issue — whether the United States should or should not make friends with Hitler — buzzes through GOP delegations here and is sure to be important in the coming campaign. If Roosevelt runs for a third term, it will be all-important.

HITLER AND U. S.

From diplomatic information it is possible to get a general idea of what the immediate future will bring forth in Europe if Hitler takes England, as he seems sure to do in the next month.

IST, he will want to buy U. S. cotton and grain in large quantities—in fact, he will be willing to take most of our surplus—but he will want a huge loan from the United States Government to do it. This will be called reconstruction financing, and it will be tempting bait to farming and business groups.

2ND, it is more than likely that Hitler will offer to freeze the armaments of Europe and the United States on the basis of their present armed strength.

This also will be tempting to a tax-ridden American public. The United States always has favored disarmament, and several times has proposed freezing armaments. However, this was when France and England had an army and navy, and when this country was protected by them in South America.

Today, Hitler's reported plan would leave the United States with less than 250,000 men, Germany with about 3,000,000. In other words, Latin America would be open to attack at any time, and the United States would be powerless to prevent it.

The British Lion is roaring at last.

DIET AND HEALTH

Thin Man Gets Clue

● EVERY TIME I publish a list of diets for overweight, which I do about once a year, I get a long list of complaints, the burden of which is "You're talking about the overweight. Why don't you do something for us underweights, those of us who are thin and can't seem to fatten up?"

There are really almost as many of them as there are of the overweight, although they are not so conspicuous, so I am going to publish some advice and a list of diets for underweights during the next few weeks.

One thing the underweight patient does not seem to realize is that it takes just as much work and self-denial to gain weight as it does to lose it. The overweight patient knows that it is going to be hard on him and is prepared to make some sacrifices, but the underweight patient seems to think that he can take some vitamin tablets or some other mysterious kind of magic and he will begin to gain weight automatically. This is not true. He has to work for his advantages.

Do You Eat Enough?

As in the case of the overweight patient, there are two distinct kinds of underweights. In the smaller group are those who have some organic or physiological cause for their underweight. These may be hidden or difficult of assessment. Of course the conspicuous one is tuberculosis. Cases of diabetes may go unrecognized for a long time and be a cause of underweight. Conditions of the ductless glands, such as Simmonds' Disease, and adrenal insufficiency, may cause abnormal thinness; also certain nervous conditions, or asthenia.

In most instances, however, underweight is due to the fact that the individual does not eat enough, just as overweight is largely due to too much eating. It is really very simple. I have several doctor friends who are interested in nutrition and several of them are quite thin. With one accord they say that their leanness is no mystery; that they simply do not like to eat and they look on me, and people like me, with fine appetites, with a kind of envy. They estimate that they instinctively eat about one-third as much as another person of the same age and height.

Sample Diet

Three days a week, for a time, we will publish in this column a daily menu of a diet planned to increase weight. They contain at least 3500 calories per diem. They are balanced for minerals, vitamins, and roughage.

CHAPTER FORTY-SIX

THE MERRIFIELD study on the second floor of the old mansion was a room 28 by 30 feet in dimensions, high ceilinged, lined with book cases on two sides and furnished with heavy chairs, rockers, and Mr. Merrifield's huge mahogany desk. The desk was before the fireplace, and even though this was late spring the butler had stirred up a little blaze just because it was customary, and because an old man is likely to feel any slight chill in the air after sundown. Two knots glimmered in the fireplace now, throwing shadows that danced about the big room in ghostly parade.

A tall bookcase jutted out from one end of the wide mantle, reaching the desk for convenience and forming a dark set-back nook in one corner of the big room. There Mr. Merrifield had caused to be placed a long couch, and there he frequently lay down for cat naps, resting a quarter-hour, half hour, or an hour as need be, to restore his surprising energies. A heavy afghan thrown there served to cover his feet and legs on such occasions.

Now, on this night of the play and the ball, he discovered after dinner that he was suddenly fatigued. He had been as excited as one of the youngsters about the doings in his home. He had three friends in to dinner, and so did a deal of talking. He knew that on this occasion he wanted to stay up past midnight. So he wisely decided to lie down a bit beforehand. He bade his friends make themselves at home on the front porch below, while he slipped off upstairs to the old couch in the private nook he loved so well.

"I have taken the liberty, Miss Gayle, to bring in two assistants this evening," the maid Maudie said, while helping Gayle dress. "You understand? We don't want it to happen again."

"Oh, yes, Mrs. Maudie! I do hope nothing happens to mar this party. Any thievery could simply ruin."

"Don't worry now. We'll be on guard. Please just relax and enjoy yourself and let us do all your worrying for you." Mrs. Holmquist, called Maudie, was a kindly soul, Gayle knew. Gayle smiled her thanks.

It wasn't easy to relax, though. Any party has a mass of last-second details. Any theater is a madhouse on opening night. With a play and a party planned for the same evening, and with herself acting in one and being hostess at the other, Gayle Dixon was fairly flying with energy and nerves.

Not that she didn't love it. She did. She enjoyed the excitement because she was young. Mrs. Holmquist had helped to make her even more beautiful than usual, in her white net evening gown. Her strawberry-colored hair was curled perfectly, her cheeks pink from excitement rather than from rouge. Bill, smilingly busy, paused long enough to admire her when she came downstairs at seven.

"Chris-to-pher!" he breathed, staring.

"Something?" she pretended not to understand.

"Yes! Plenty!" She plouetted for him, like a model; then smiled and flickered her eyelids.

"Stop it!" he commanded. "A man can stand just so much. I may yet grab you by the hair and rush off to some mountain cave."

"Oh, how romantic!" she gushed, then ran on, laughing.

The two understood each other, in part at least. Bill had a moment of dejection there as he watched her go—Bill who had come to worship her, but who could not speak of his love. He wondered why he let promises and pride and loyalty and all those things interfere. He had mentioned a cave man—why in the devil didn't he do what any sensible cave man would have done, take her and damn the cost? But he shook his head. He had been hemmed in and tied by finer, civilized concepts. If some day he didn't explode?

Gayle went on to the kitchen, and in spite of herself she was excited anew by Bill's compliment. Bill was a handsome thing! Especially so tonight, in his trim tuxedo. In a little while she would be in a play with him and the play would enable her to linger in his arms again and be kissed by him as before—and held close. It was intensely moving, even though it was just a play.

But she could day dream no longer because Wallace, the cook, came up to help her go over the refreshments a last time. Poor Wallace took this big party seriously. He and his new and personally baked and fed 1,700 little cakes (one for each anticipated guest and host tonight). They were laid in white, with a flower garden scene adroitly painted with colored icings, culinary spring songs in pink and blue and green.

"Precious!" Gayle told him, and meant it. Besides which there was an abundance of punch. It was a new spice punch he had originated, to be served later by pouring from a pitcher into tall glasses filled with ice shaved into snow. He served Gayle a glass now and she pronounced it delicious.

Gayle found Lola practicing her songs and paused long enough to squeeze Lola's arm in friendliness. Leaving her, Gayle had a flash of wonder about the thefts again and the whole embarrassing business about Lola. But there was no time for meditating now.

At 7:30, a full hour ahead of time, the first guests arrived. Gayle greeted them, a middle-aged couple, chatted amiably and refreshments a last time. Poor Wallace took this big party seriously. He and his new and personally baked and fed 1,700 little cakes (one for each anticipated guest and host tonight). They were laid in white, with a flower garden scene adroitly painted with colored icings, culinary spring songs in pink and blue and green.

By 8 o'clock several more had arrived and by 8:15 literally hundreds of gay people were on the expansive lawn. They all came, as before, to the house first, presented their tickets and their courtesies, left hats and wraps in the assigned rooms, and then went to the green-aw-maid, gave careful attention to the ladies in their private wing of the mansion.

Adele Larraway and Lola Montesa, assisted by three boy friends of Bill, did most of the honors at the doorway, for the simple reason that Bill and Gayle had other duties. Mr. Weems helped some, beaming kindly, Mr. Merrifield.

Today's Horoscope

An excellent year lies ahead of today's birthday children. Their health, business and love affairs will all prosper exceedingly. The child born today will have a most kind, affectionate and hospitable character. He or she will be magnanimous, loyal and sympathetic, but rather lacking in self-confidence. Much good fortune and happiness are indicated for such a one, nevertheless.

THE MERRIFIELD study on the second floor of the old mansion was a room 28 by 30 feet in dimensions, high ceilinged, lined with book cases on two sides and furnished with heavy chairs, rockers, and Mr. Merrifield's huge mahogany desk. The desk was before the fireplace, and even though this was late spring the butler had stirred up a little blaze just because it was customary, and because an old man is likely to feel any slight chill in the air after sundown. Two knots glimmered in the fireplace now, throwing shadows that danced about the big room in ghostly parade.

A tall bookcase jutted out from one end of the wide mantle, reaching the desk for convenience and forming a dark set-back nook in one corner of the big room. There Mr. Merrifield had caused to be placed a long couch, and there he frequently lay down for cat naps, resting a quarter-hour, half hour, or an hour as need be, to restore his surprising energies. A heavy Afghan thrown there served to cover his feet and legs on such occasions.

Now, on this night of the play and the ball, he discovered after dinner that he was suddenly fatigued. He had been as excited as one of the youngsters about the doings in his home. He had three friends in to dinner, and so did a deal of talking. He knew that on this occasion he wanted to stay up past midnight. So he wisely decided to lie down a bit beforehand. He had his friends make themselves at home on the front porch below, while he slipped off upstairs to the old couch in the private nook he loved so well.

"I have taken the liberty, Miss Gayle, to bring in two assistants this evening," the maid Maudie said, while helping Gayle dress. "You understand? We don't want it to happen again."

"Oh, yes, Mrs.—Maudie! I do hope nothing happens to mar this party. Any thievery could simply ruin—"

"Don't worry now. We'll be on guard. Please just relax and enjoy yourself and let us do any worrying for you." Mrs. Holmquist, called Maudie, was a kindly soul, Gayle knew. Gayle smiled her thanks.

It wasn't easy to relax, though. Any party has a mass of last-second details. Any theater is a madhouse on opening night. With a play and a party planned for the same evening, and with herself acting in one and being hostess at the other, Gayle Dixon was fairly flying with energy and nerves. Not that she didn't love it. She did. She enjoyed the excitement because she was young. Mrs. Holmquist had helped to make her even more beautiful than usual, in her white net evening gown. Her strawberry-colored hair was curled perfectly, her cheeks pink from excitement rather than from rouge. Bill, similarly busy, paused long enough to admire her when she came downstairs at seven.

"Chris-to-pher!" he breathed, staring.

"Something?" she pretended not to understand.

"Yes! Plenty!"

She pirouetted for him, like a model; then smiled and flickered her eyelids.

"Stop it!" he commanded. "A man can stand just so much. I may yet grab you by the hair and rush off to some mountain cave."

"Oh, how roman-tic!" she gushed, then ran on, laughing.

The two understood each other, in part at least. Bill had a moment of dejection there as he watched her go—Bill who had come to worship her, but who could not speak of his love. He wondered why he let promises and pride and loyalty and all those things interfere. He had mentioned a caveman—why in the devil didn't he do what any sensible cave man would have done, take her and damn the cost? But he shook his head. He had been hemmed in and tied by finer, civil-

Hints on Etiquette

It is not good manners to hint to relatives or friends that you be at the home of the bride's mother, June 26.

Cary Short sold a carload of horses to A. W. Jacobs of Plattsburg, N. Y. They were to be shipped abroad for artillery purposes.

25 YEARS AGO
Mr. Samuel C. Tootle of Mt. Sterling and Mrs. Jessie Alkire Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank D. Alkire of Williamsport were married in their own home which the bridegroom had recently built. The Rev. Charles E. Hill of Mt. Sterling officiated.

Invitations to the marriage of Mr. Charles Winstead of Boise, Idaho, formerly of Circleville, and Miss Anna Hoeman, daughter of Mrs. Richard Skinner of Princeton, Ill., were received in Circleville. The wedding was to ized concepts. If some day he didn't explode!

Gayle went on to the kitchen, in spite of herself she was excited anew by Bill's compliment. Bill was a handsome thing! Especially so tonight, in his trim tuxedo. In a little while she would be in a play with him and the play would enable her to linger in his arms again and be kissed by him as before—and held close. It was intensely moving, even though it was just a play.

But she could day dream no longer because Wallace, the cook, came up to help her go over the refreshments a last time. Poor Wallace took this big party seriously. He and his new helpers had personally baked and iced 1,700 little cakes (one for each anticipated guest and host tonight). They were leed in white, with a flower garden scene adroitly painted with colored icings, culinary spring songs in pink and blue and green.

"Precious!" Gayle told him, and meant it. Besides which there was an abundance of punch. It was a new spice punch he had originated, to be served later by pouring from a pitcher into tall glasses filled with ice shaved into snow. He served Gayle a glass now and she pronounced it delicious.

Gayle found Lola practicing her songs and paused long enough to squeeze Lola's arm in friendliness. Leaving her, Gayle had a flash of wonder about the thefts again and the whole embarrassing business about Lola. But there was no time for meditating now.

At 7:30, a full hour ahead of time, the first guests arrived. Gayle greeted them, a middle-aged couple, chatted amiably and sent Adele Laraway with them to the scene of the first act, on the lawn. In a beautiful nook there under the oak trees the string orchestra was already waiting, and when the guests came the soft music began.

By 8 o'clock several more had arrived and by 8:15 literally hundreds of gay people were on the expansive lawn. They all came, as before, to the house first, presented their tickets and their courtesies, left hats and wraps in the assigned rooms, and then went to the green-ward. Mrs. Holmquist, the detective-maid, gave careful attention to the ladies in their private wing of the mansion.

Adele Laraway and Lola Montesa, assisted by three boy friends of Bill, did most of the honors at the doorway, for the simple reason that Bill and Gayle had other duties. Mr. Weems helped some, beaming kindly. Mr. Merrifield

An excellent year lies ahead of today's birthday children. Their health, business and love affairs will all prosper exceedingly. The child born today will have a most kind, affectionate and hospitable character. He or she will be magnanimous, loyal and sympathetic, but rather lacking in self-confidence. Much good fortune and happiness are indicated for such a one, nevertheless.

Shepherd's-purse rich in seeds

Shepherd's-purse is an annual weed which is not particular as to soil, therefore it is to be found almost everywhere. Each plant produces seeds runnings into the thousands. Each little seed pod, or purse, holds some 20 seeds. Because Shepherd's-purse is so rich in seeds it is important that the plant be eliminated from yards into long stagnant business or to enhance long lagging values in real possessions or investments.

A child born on this day should be faithful, studious, industrious and ambitious, winning recognition from its superiors and others of high station. This and its friendly, congenial, hospitable and compassionate nature assure a successful and happy life.

and gardens at this season when its seeds are ripening.

Shepherd's-purse has a whorl of root leaves, as shown in the Garden-Graph. The flowers are small and white. The seed pod is flat and heart-shaped. The seeds from this weed will live for a number of years.

This pest can be pulled out of the ground easily after a soaking rain, or it can be cut off below the crown by means of a hot. In large areas it can be controlled by spraying with iron or copper sulfate.

Dusting chickweed patches in the lawn while wet with the morning dew, using arsenate of lead or ammonium sulphate, will kill the leaves and check the growth of the plant sufficiently to permit the surrounding grass to grow in and smother future growth of this weed.

Recent experiments prove that plants which are properly fertilized resist drought better than those which lack plant food. This is especially true of trees but applies equally to shrubs, evergreens, roses and flower borders. An application of fertilizer, followed by light cultivation and watering, will often prove a valuable investment at this season.

Pot-grown vines may be planted for effect this year, though only the annual vines will grow luxuriously the first season.

Today's Garden-Graph

Shepherd's-purse is an annual weed which is not particular as to soil, therefore it is to be found almost everywhere. Each plant produces seeds runnings into the thousands. Each little seed pod, or purse, holds some 20 seeds. Because Shepherd's-purse is so rich in seeds it is important that the plant be eliminated from yards into long stagnant business or to enhance long lagging values in real possessions or investments.

A child born on this day should be faithful, studious, industrious and ambitious, winning recognition from its superiors and others of high station. This and its friendly, congenial, hospitable and compassionate nature assure a successful and happy life.

Recent experiments prove that plants which are properly fertilized resist drought better than those which lack plant food. This is especially true of trees but applies equally to shrubs, evergreens, roses and flower borders. An application of fertilizer, followed by light cultivation and watering, will often prove a valuable investment at this season.

Pot-grown vines may be planted for effect this year, though only the annual vines will grow luxuriously the first season.

Dusting chickweed patches in the lawn while wet with the morning dew, using arsenate of lead or ammonium sulphate, will kill the leaves and check the growth of the plant sufficiently to permit the surrounding grass to grow in and smother future growth of this weed.

Silence Wins Consent!

Gas Refrigeration Freezes Silently Without Moving Parts

Silent gas refrigeration is winning the consent of modern families who want more savings for more years in their kitchens. A tiny gas flame replaces all moving parts in the freezing system. There is nothing to wear or require costly repairs — nothing to make noise. The Gas Company now backs the 1940 Servel Electrolux gas refrigerator with a 10-year unconditional guarantee on the complete refrigerating system. Only one refrigerator could merit this unmatched confidence. See it today. Prices are lowest in Servel history.

ORDINANCE NO. 2070

An ordinance creating the office of Collector of Sewer Rental Funds, setting the salary and term of office of said collector and providing for manner of making surveys and adjustments.

WHEREAS, it is necessary that the office of Collector of Sewer Rental Funds be created in order to properly collect the assessments established in Ordinance No. 1081, and that there should be provided the means necessary to carry on surveys and to make adjustments, NOW THEREFORE,

BE IT ORDAINED BY THE COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF CIRCLEVILLE, OHIO:

Section 1. That there be created the office of Collector of Sewer Rental Funds and that the term of said office shall coincide with the term of the City Auditor.

Section 2. That the City Auditor be empowered to appoint such Collector with the consent and approval of the City Council.

Section 3. That the office of the Collector be in connection with or adjacent to the offices of the City Auditor in the City Building.

Section 4. That said Collector be required to give such bond as may be required by law.

Section 5. That the salary of such Collector be in the amount of $15.00 per week, for time actually employed payable out of Sewage Rental and Sewage Disposal Funds; said Collector shall be employed for a period not to exceed six months in any one quarter.

Section 6. The Director of Public Service shall each quarter cause a survey to be made in order to determine whether all connections to the sewerage system are being assessed and he shall report his findings in writing to the Collector of Sewer Rental Funds at the end of each quarter.

Section 7. That any Ordinance or parts of Ordinances in conflict herewith be and the same are hereby repealed.

Section 8. That this Ordinance be in full force and effect from and after the earliest period allowed by law.

Passed by Council this 19th day of June, 1940.

JOHN C. GOELLER, President of Council.

MUNGO DROPPED, VISITS DOCTOR TO TEST ARM

NEW YORK, June 25—Taken off the active players' list by the Brooklyn Dodgers, Van Lingle Mungo prepared today to depart for Johns-Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore, Md., for an examination of his ailing right shoulder that will determine the fate of his famous pitching career.

If an immediate operation is found necessary, Mungo will be placed on the voluntarily retired list, President Larry MacPhail of the Dodgers said. If not, Mungo will be carried on the roster as a coach for batting practice.

In either case, MacPhail said, he will be out of the lineup for 60 days. Mungo was dropped to make way for Lou Fette, newly acquired pitcher from the Boston Bees.

BROWNIES HAVE CLASS, BUT NEED BETTER HURLING

By Ed Kiely

NEW YORK, June 25—Give Manager Fred Haney a couple of pitchers and a couple of years and the St. Louis Browns might accomplish what they have been striving to do these last 38 years—win an American League pennant.

Never in the league's history have the Browns finished in first place. Twice they came close, finishing second. But the majority of times they ended the campaign as they did last season, in the second division.

Today Haney, who succeeded Gabby Street as manager in 1939, has the makings of a promising club. His youngsters are powdering the ball, but his pitching staff is woefully weak.

Yesterday the Browns cemented themselves in fifth place in the junior circuit by lacing the Philadelphia Athletics, 9 to 4. Four home runs, two by Walt Judnick, paced the Browns 12-hit assault on two enemy pitchers.

The Cleveland Indians blasted the New York Yankees 7 to 1 in a night game.

All other games in both leagues were rained out.

KASEYS THUMP RED BIRDS FOR TWO VICTORIES

COLUMBUS, June 25—Kansas City and Minneapolis continued on their merry two-party fight chase in the American Association today, with the Blues winning a double-header from Columbus and the Millers trimming Indianapolis to widen the gap between themselves and the rest of the pack.

Superb pitching which limited the Columbus squad to only 10 hits in the pair of tilts contributed to the league-leading Blues twin win. The Blues took the first tilt, 4 to 2, and the second 3 to 1. Bill Hitchcock's homer with a mate aboard accounted for the nightcap victory.

The Millers-Indians game went 10 innings before an error by Damon Phillips, Indians shortstop, gave the Millers a 6 to 5 victory. The Indians went ahead in the top half of the tenth by a run, but Phillips' bobble with the bases full and two out let in a pair of counters.

Louisville lost the odd game of the three-game series at St. Paul by a 7 to 4 count. The Saints piled up all their runs in the first two cantos and coasted to an easy victory.

Toledo's scheduled double-header at Milwaukee was rained out.

RACES AT LANCASTER TO START WEDNESDAY

LANCASTER, June 25—The Inaugural Handicap, at the popular distance of six and one-half furlongs, will be the principal race on the opening day of the mid-summer meeting here Wednesday, June 26. The meeting will continue through Saturday, July 6.

The Inaugural is for three-year-olds and up for a purse of $400.

Post time for the first race will be 2:15 daily with the exception of Friday, June 28, Monday, July 1, and Friday, July 5, when twilight racing will prevail. On twilight days, the first race will be run at 4:15 p. m.

Prospects for a successful meeting are bright and officials of the Lancaster Jockey Club, Inc., are optimistic concerning the outlook. Monday, Wednesday and Friday have been designated as ladies days.

BIG TEN GOLFER TAKES LEAD IN COLLEGE MEET

MANCHESTER, Vt., June 25—With a par 70 for the first 18-hole qualifying round, Neil Cronquist, University of Minnesota senior and president of the Intercollegiate Golf Association, today led the field of 170 into the second round of the 43rd intercollegiate golf championships.

Trailing Cronquist by a stroke were Johnny Burke, Georgetown; Billy Cordingley, Harvard; W. G. Clark, Dartmouth, and Warren Berl, Stanford. All had 71's.

Louisiana State had a wide lead for the team title with a record-breaking 294 strokes for its six players. It was followed by Princeton, Stanford and Georgetown in that order with 303, 304 and 305.

THE HEROES AND THE GOATS
HEROES—Walt Judnick, St. Louis outfielder, who hit two homers as the Browns defeated Philadelphia.

GOATS—Johnny Babich, Philadelphia pitcher, whose home run pitch caused the Athletics' downfall.

Two-Ton Sees Physicia To Determine Physical Readiness For Baer

By Lawton Carver

NEW YORK, June 25—Just to make sure that he hasn't burnt out a bearing or blown a gasket since he last submitted to an inspection, Two-Ton Tarzan Galento, to Esq., will be given a thorough examination late today by Dr. Louis H. Dodson, of the New Jersey State Athletic Commission. This will be in the nature of one of the last precautionary measures to be taken before Galento is permitted to offer his beef-blasted carcass as a target for Max Baer's punches in the Jersey City baseball park a week from tonight.

Galento probably has been examined more than any heavyweight that ever lived. The attack of pneumonia he suffered some time back has caused him to be perpetually regarded as a candidate for the morgue if he allows himself to be unduly exerted, but he still goes on winning—from everybody except Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis. And he remains healthy even after fighting Louis. In fact—and you can check his record on this—Galento has been a better fighter since he finished that prolonged encampment under an oxygen tent that he ever was before.

He probably isn't human, for he looks the part of nothing more prepossessing than a paunchy, cigar-smoking, lager-guzzling old gent who has failed in 30-odd years to learn any manners. He hasn't learned to fight much either, but he can hit and every body is wondering right now whether he will be able to make Baer quit before they have gone the 15.

MUNGO DROPPED, VISITS DOCTOR TO TEST ARM

NEW YORK, June 25—Taken off the active players' list by the Brooklyn Dodgers, Van Lingle Mungo prepared today to depart for Johns-Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore, Md., for an examination of his ailing right shoulder that will determine the fate of his famous pitching career.

If an immediate operation is found necessary, Mungo will be placed on the voluntarily retired list, President Larry MacPhail of the Dodgers said. If not, Mungo will be carried on the roster as a coach for batting practice.

In either case, MacPhail said, he will be out of the lineup for 60 days. Mungo was dropped to make way for Lou Fette, newly acquired pitcher from the Boston Bees.

5,000 TO BE PUT ON PENSION LIST IN NEXT MONTH

COLUMBUS, June 25—Welfare Director Charles L. Sherwood estimated today that 5000 new names would be added to the Ohio old-age pension rolls during July as a result of the new $2,000,000 appropriation bill passed last week by the special session of the legislature.

Pension rolls will reach 128,000 by July 1, contrasted with the previous high of 125,693 in December, 1939, he predicted.

BIGELOW FILES SUIT AGAINST OHIO OPPONENT

FINDLAY, June 25—A $250,000 suit filed by Rev. Herbert S. Bigelow, Cincinnati, "500 at 60" pension advocate, against B. B. Brumley, Hancock County Farmer and chairman of the state committee which opposed the pension at the last November election, was on file in common pleas court today.

Bigelow charges his reputation and business were injured by Brumley. A similar suit filed in Toledo was dismissed recently.

COUNTY TRANSFERS $1,000 TO RELIEF FOR OFFICES

Pickaway County Commissioners Monday transferred $1,000 from the general fund to the relief fund. The action was taken after the commissioners had received permission from C. L. Sherwood, state relief director, to spend up to $1,000 out of relief funds for building relief offices in the new county garage.

E. F. Martin Buys Shop, Equipment In Ashville

By S. D. Fridley Phone Ashville 79

Prof. E. F. Martin who recently resigned his position as principal of the local schools, has purchased of Mrs. Mildred Messick, administratrix of the estate of Taylor Brintlinger, her father, the shop and equipment operated by Mr. Brintlinger for many years. Mr. Martin began work Monday on some jobs already in. The Martins own their own home on East Street and with the new purchase will continue to make Ashville their home.

Ashville—William Ross, a barber, who for the last year has occupied the G. A. Hook business room on West Main Street, removed Monday with his wife to the farm home of his father-in-law near Adamsville. And succeeding Mr. Ross in the same location is Ross Davis also of the Capital City.

Ashville—Little Miss Elizabeth Ann, near six weeks of age and of the Methodist Children's Home at Worthington, has come down from there to make an indefinite stay with Harry and Mrs. Sark out on East Main Street.

A true chicken hen story. Ed Lewis who has charge of the poultry at his home here in the village is sure that the Plymouth Rock breed as chicken go, is the best of all of them. A certain hen in his flock, he says, as a year old, hatched and raised to maturity last year a brood of 15. And now this year, she hatched from 17 eggs the same number of chicks all living and doing fine. Mr. Lewis feels that this is at least near a record breaker in good work for one biddie and worth telling our readers about.

PAGE RIPLEY!
Here is one for Robert Ripley. The annual school report for Pickaway County, sent to the State Department of Education Tuesday by George D. McDowell, county superintendent, revealed that during the 1939-40 school year, Walnut Township school had a net enrollment of 402, 201 boys and 201 girls. In the graduating class of 30, there were 15 boys and 15 girls. Of the graduates, six boys and six girls were 16 years old at the beginning of the school year, eight boys and eight girls were 17 and one boy and one girl were 18.

girls. Eighty-one school buses, whose combined capacity is 3,606 pupils, transported more than 2,900 pupils to school during the year. Of the 163 teachers in the county 104, or more than two-thirds, were women. The average salary for the elementary grade teachers was $934 and for the high school teachers, $1,377.

During the year, 1,485 school books, costing $1,819.58 were added to the 39 school libraries, bringing the total number of usable volumes in the elementary schools to 6,422 and in the high schools to 15,395.
